ABOUT

Warehouse Journal is a publication highlighting student work from the Faculty of Architecture at the University of Manitoba. As editors of the 33rd volume of Warehouse Journal, we, Amy McFadden, Andie Margolis, and Paige Michalyshen have been given the honor to publish your work and share your stories.

As a team, we believe that there are threads that run through projects of diverse disciplines. Our goal is to curate a journal that connects them. Our intention is to blur the disconnect between disciplines and thereby shift paradigms in how we perceive our own and others' work.

As editors, we believe there are three tenets that embody a genuine connection:

Dialogue, Realization, and Impact.

The foundation of a connection begins with meaningful dialogue; the sharing of ideas and unique perspectives, respectfully, with a focus to foster exploration and the expansion of knowledge. This dialogue paves the way for the realization of potentials and relationships; collaborative effort and the amalgamation of difference being actualized. Finally, the result of a meaningful connection is its impact: one that drives for change, pushes boundaries, and leaves a lasting imprint on our society and public realm.

Through meaningful dialogue we create realization and through this realization, we can make an impact. Dialogue, Realization, Impact: these will be the chapters of the 33rd volume, working collectively to capture the connections within our Faculty and Design Community.

We believe it is important to curate volume 33 in this way to emphasize the relationships we have as designers with each other, our spaces, our community, and the land. As editors, we will use this form as a guide to understand your project and you as a contributor, therefore we emphasize that it is important that you clearly articulate your project via text and images to ensure we are able to represent it accurately and thoughtfully in the journal.
